REFUSE TO TAKE IN THE ADDITION

City Council Decides That Streets
Must be Straightened Before Factory Gets Fire Protection.

TURN BOTH PETITIONS DOWN

Tax Levy Remains Same as Last
Year, $1 on $100—Library Board Gets $1,411.

The Stewart and Tompkins addition to Belmont will not be annexed to the city of Rushville until the streets of the addition are made uniform with those of the city. Such was the decision reached last night by the city council which met in special session.

The petitions asking for the admittance into the city and extension of water mains were referred, at a previous meeting to the committee on streets and alleys and the committee on water. Councilman Norris as chairman of the streets and alleys committee in his report stated that the committee was ready to accept the addition to Belmont as soon as the streets were straightened out and made to conform with those of the city. He said they had made a thorough examination and found that the streets of the addition were not co-extensive with the four streets of the city that would extend through the addition. He declared that if the streets were made to co-extend the addition would be taken in at once.

Councilman Kelley as chairman of the water committee said his committee was ready and had the supplies on hand to build the extension if the factory promoters would conform with the request of the street committee.

Councilman Parsons stated that it was his opinion that the people had the wrong idea about the city on the water question. He said the city had always been in favor of giving the new factory water but the objection was on account of the fact that the streets needed straightening and for this reason he could not vote to annex the territory. The city clerk was told to notify the Rushville Furniture company of the disposition of the council and to tell the company that they could get the fire protection and annexation by conforming with the council's rulings.

The council fixed the tax levy for the coming year at $1 for each $100. This is the same rate as last year. A new factor entered into the making of the levy this year and that was the order from the Rushville library board asking for an appropriation of five-tenths of a mill for library tax. The taxable property in the city is $2,823,710, and to give the library board five-tenths of a mill would mean that they would receive $1,411. This was an appropriation the city "dads" had not figured on, and it looked for a time as though the tax levy would have to be raised.

The five-tenths of a mill is equal to 5 cents on the one-hundred dollars. By changing the proposed tax levy ordinance the extra five cents was placed so as not to raise the rate. The tax levy ordinance as passed fixed the rate as follows on each $100:

Water and light plant expense	.30
Street repairs and cleaning	.20
Fire department expense	.06
Salaries of officers	.20
Bonded indebtedness	.19
Library board	.05

Total	$1.00
On each taxable poll	$1.00
Each male dog	$1.00
Each female dog	$2.00
Each additional dog	$2.00

CORNELIUS OSTER FINED

Pleaded Guilty to Assault and Battery Before Judge Blair.

Cornelius Oster pleaded guilty to the charge of assault and battery this morning in the circuit court and was fined five dollars and costs by Judge Blair. The case was sent from the mayor's court to the circuit court on an appeal. In Mayor Black's court Oster was fined $15 and costs and sentenced to serve 15 days in jail. Oster was arrested for assault and battery on Chief of Police McAllister. The fight took place on Saturday night, August 19 and the trial was held the following Monday morning.

OLD FOLKS KONCERT WILL BE OCTOBER 9

Date is Selected at Meeting of Rush
County Chautauqua Association
This Morning.

STOCKHOLDERS MEET, OCT. 3

At a meeting of the directors of the Rush County Chautauqua Association this morning it was decided to hold the "Old Folks Koncert" in the coliseum at the city park Monday evening, October ninth. The date for the annual meeting of the stockholders of the association was set for Tuesday evening, October 3. It will be held in the court house assembly room.

The concert will be just one week from Monday night and there is little time left for practice. J. Walter Wilson says that every spare moment will be used in practicing and rehearsing so that the concert will be a success.

A general financial report was made by the secretary this morning so that the association would know just how much it is in debt. At the meeting of the stockholders the complete report will be made public to the people of the city and county. At that time, also, new directors will be chosen and they will in turn elect officers.

RECEIVES NOTICE OF DREAD DISEASE

Reports Infantile Paralysis to Dr.
Frank Green, County Health
Commissioner.

LOLA PECK GROWING WORSE

County health commissioner, Dr. Frank Green has received official notice of the case of infantile paralysis in this county. Lola Peck, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Peck of Orange township, who contracted the disease Saturday, has been treated by Shelbyville physicians and for this reason Dr. Green did not get the report until yesterday. Little hope is entertained for the child's recovery and it is stated that she is gradually growing worse. It has been rumored that there were several cases of the dread disease in the schools of Moscow and Orange township, but these are not true, according to Dr. Green, who made an investigation yesterday afternoon.

KERN TO BE HERE "SHERMAN DAY"

James E. Watson Receives Word
That Senator Will Be Rushville's
Guest Tuesday, Oct. 10.

COMMITTEES ARE AT WORK

Planned to Employ Bands and Business Men Believe There is Demand For Excursions.

Word was received by James E. Watson last evening from Senator John W. Kern that he would be glad to take part in the "Sherman day" celebration here Tuesday, October 10. Mr. Kern was finally located in Muncie and he communicated with Mr. Watson from that point. Mr. Kern will accompany the local committee and the vice-president down here from Indianapolis on the I. & C. special car.

Arrangements are gradually being completed by the committees from the Rushville Retail Merchants Association for the day's program. It is expected that a meeting of the members of the committees and the officers of the association will be held in the next few days.

The committee on arrangements is planning to employ two or three bands to furnish the music for the day. Other noise-makers may be arranged for so as to make the day a glorious success.

That Rushville will be crowded to capacity there is every reason to believe. There has been considerable talk of plans to arrange for excursions over the railroads into the city on "Sherman day." The Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction line will bring people from all along the line and it is believed by merchants that there will be a demand for special trains to carry people from New Castle, Greensburg, Shelbyville, Columbus, Franklin, Cambridge City and from all of the small intervening cities.

That the day's celebration will be a purely non-partisan affair strengthens the belief that the crowd will be a mammoth one. Admirers of Senator Kern as well as the vice-president will be attracted here for the day. Both men will make addresses in the afternoon.

Daffydil Doings Down In Dippy Dell

An airship is a great invention—Jerry Walker admits that but he does not care to have any more rides like the one he had the other day. Culbertson, the inventor, invited him out to his home for a little trip to the clouds. Jerry acquiesced, but not without remonstrating a little, however, to being taken off of terra firma for a brief space of time. They started heavenward at about fifty miles an hour with Jerry holding his hat with one hand and the frame of the machine with the other. When they were up in the bird region, the engine began to sputter, sizzle and pop. Jerry grew white and blue and green by turns. After he had summoned sufficient courage, he asked the aviator what the trouble was. Culbertson replied that it did not amount to anything only that possibly the engine might

WILL CONSIDER COUNCIL'S ACT

Special Meeting of Rushville Retail Merchants Association is Called For Friday Night.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO ATTEND

Plans Will be Made to Change Decision of Council in Regard to Factory.

A special meeting of the Rushville Retail Merchants Association will be held Friday evening to consider the plans to bring force to bear on the members of the city council to cause them to change their stand on the factory question. Last night the council decided that the city would not furnish water to the company until the streets in the new addition were made coextensive with the streets of the city.

When the report became current this morning that the council had refused to admit the factory many business men were indignant. They feel that the council should have agreed to furnish water so that the factory could buy insurance at a reasonable rate and not take the addition into the corporation until the streets were changed.

There was some talk this morning of calling an indignation meeting tonight but it was decided by President Tony Schrieche to call a special meeting Friday when all other business which is pending will be settled. Everyone in the city is invited to attend the meeting and take part in the plans.

The business men are determined that the company of local capitalists shall not be hampered at every turn by the city council. The fact that the council has placed something in the way of the company every time it has made a request of the city has aroused the business men to action so that Rushville will not be in such a position that no new industries can gain entrance to the city.

At the special meeting other business which is now pending before the merchants will be transacted. The special meeting which was called for next Tuesday evening will not be held due to the calling of the one Friday night. The "Sherman day" committees will meet at that time and perfect plans for the day. At that time also arrangements will be made for the booster trip to Milroy Thursday night of next week when Milroy will hold its fall festival.

HORSE NOT LOCATED HERE

Police Notified to Watch For Stolen
Outfit.

Chief of Police McAllister received a telephone call last night from the Connersville police stating that a horse and buggy had been stolen in that city and that it was thought the rig was headed towards this city. A close watch was kept for the missing outfit, but nothing resulted. The horse was described as being a sorrel mare weighing about 1000 pounds and 15½ hands high. A white star was on the forehead. The buggy was painted black and was comparatively new.

TO ENFORCE ORDER AGAINST SMOKING

Prof. M. R. McDaniel Says Students Must Not Use Nicotine Within Sight of Building.

VIOLATORS MAY BE SUSPENDED

Principal M. R. McDaniel of the high school announced emphatically yesterday that smoking within sight of the school building must cease, and that the rule would be strictly enforced. The students, who violate the rule are liable to suspension and may be expelled if the authorities see fit. Many of the high school students have been in the habit of sitting on the lawn across from the school building and enjoying a pleasant half hour with "king" nicotine before the afternoon sessions begin. This is an old rule, but has not been enforced and the school authorities are determined to stop all smoking within sight of the building.

ENTRIES ARE HIGH CLASS THIS YEAR

Horse Show Officials Cite Examples to Show That Competition Will be Very Keen.

ARE MORE ENTRIES THAN EVER

There are more entries made for the annual fall horse show, which will be held Wednesday and Thursday, October 18 and 19, than there was ever for any previous show on the day the show started. The same thing applies to the combination sale which will be held in the Davis Bros. barn the day following the horse show. The officials of the show are predicting a better exhibition than was ever held before.

Some of the entries which have been made in the last few days indicate that the competition for prizes will be very keen. Dr. C. H. Ergam-bright of Liberty has entered a two-year-old stud by Ed Custer, 2:10, dam by Sphinx, 2:20. W. L. Edwards of Knightstown has entered a two-year-old black filly by Bufford B., dam by The King. These examples are cited by horse show officials to show that the class of the entries this year is very good and that the horses must be well bred in order to be in the money.

ANOTHER LETTER RECEIVED TODAY

Anonymous Writer Surprised That People do Not Force Railroad to Build New Depot.

WHY NOT FORCE IT TO BUILD?

Letter Says Other Cities Have Obtained New Stations by Petitioning Railroad Commission.

The Daily Republican received another letter today from the anonymous writer in Indianapolis, who has written here several times pointing out that the C. H. & D. depot is a disgrace to the city and giving a plan whereby Rushville could get a new station. The writer signs the letter "A Former Resident" and is very indignant because the citizens of this city act indifferently towards the much needed improvement.

In the preceding letters it has been shown how this city could get a new station and the writer is surprised that the necessary steps have not been taken. The letter received today is as follows:

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 27, 1911.

To the Editor of the Republican:
If the people of Rushville are to wait on the railroad company to build a new station, by the time they get ready we will all be dead.

It has been four months since the people's attention of Rushville was called to the fact, that many towns of Indiana were taking advantage of the new law passed by the last legislature and securing new stations, and it was pointed out that Rushville had the same opportunity as the others, but not in a single instance of the following towns, Bloomington, Cottage Grove, East Chicago, Hammond, Jeffersonville, Macksville, Rensselaer, Roachdale, did the railroad company build of their own accord, but were forced to by a petition filed by the citizens with the railroad commission.

Why do the citizens of Rushville act indifferently to these needed improvements? There is no cost attached to it, but decided benefits to come from it.

A new modern station would add greatly to the appearance of the place; none can deny that and as there are no motives involved, the idea for a new station should be effectively carried out.

Above all, the C. H. & D. station as it is now situated, is in direct violation of the law, in as much, that no railway station shall be located at the intersection of two railroads.

A Former Resident.

TROPHY IS PRESENTED

Prize Won in Oratorical Contest is Given to High School.

The trophy which was won by Miss Frances Frazee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Frazee, last spring when she won the oratorical contest at the annual meeting of the Central Indiana Oratorical Association in Crawfordsville, was presented to the high school this morning. Prof. M. R. McDaniel made the presentation speech. It is the custom for the association to present the high school whose representative wins first, with $10 besides the $10 for the representative. That amount was used in purchasing the trophy. It is a wooden shield which bears a smaller shield of burnished copper. The inscription on the copper is: "Central Indiana Oratorical Association. First Place won by Miss Frances Frazee, Rushville High School, 1911."

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Rushville People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease, follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with the reliable and safe remedy. Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in this locality.

Mrs. C. Theabald, S. Montgomery street, Shelbyville, Ind., says: "Three years ago I recommended Doan's Kidney Pills in a statement I made for publication and at this time I willingly endorse the remedy again. I have since procured Doan's Kidney Pills and they have given me relief from various symptoms of kidney complaint. I know that this remedy lives up to the claims made for it and for that reason, I advise other kidney sufferers to give it a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

COAL MINES PUZZLED OVER THE SITUATION

Never Has Trade Been So Dull In September.

Brazil, Ind., Sept. 27.—The stagnation in the coal fields of Indiana is still puzzling coal circles. It has been the rule since the discovery of coal in this state that September is the best coal producing month of the year. The fall trade opens early in August and the rush comes in September. There has been no revival in business in the coal diggings this fall, and thus far the mines have averaged less than half time during September. If anything, there has been less work this month than during August.

A prominent mine official said: "There has never been such a condition. It means that the protracted warm weather, coupled with the money stringency, has caused people to postpone buying. The situation is a grave one and is viewed with apprehension by all who are familiar with the caprices of the coal trade. There will be a wild scramble with the first cold wave, a congestion on the railroads and at the mines, and great suffering through the country. It will be impossible to get coal to the people when they need it, and there is none in storage."

FOR CONSTIPATION

A Medicine That Does Not Cost Anything Unless It Satisfies.

The active medicinal ingredients of Rexall Orderlies, which is odorless, tasteless and colorless, is an entirely new discovery. Combined with other extremely valuable ingredients, it forms a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, and are notable for their agreeableness to the palate and gentleness of action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience.

Unlike other preparations for a like purpose, they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the cause of habit acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics and harsh physic, and permanently remove the cause of constipation or irregular bowel action.

We will refund your money without argument if they do not do as we say they will. Three sizes, 50c, 25c and 10c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, Lytle's Drug Store, corner Third and Main streets.

ITALIANS FLEE FROM TRIPOLI

Those Who Remain Are In Constant Danger.

SITUATION GROWING ACUTE

While There Has Been No Admitted Act of War on Either Side, the Attitude of Both Turkey and Italy is Such That Hostilities May Be Precipitated at Any Moment—Italians Getting Out of Constantinople.

Rome, Sept. 27.—Dispatches from Tripoli say that half of the Italian colony have left and those remaining are in constant danger. Dispatches from Constantinople say that there has been a large exodus of Italians in consequence of the intimidation of the porte that they would be held as hostages in case of hostility.

London, Sept. 27.—News of Italy's warlike preparations is withheld and strictly censored, Rome dispatches say, lest it be misinterpreted as meaning imminent action, which is not contemplated, since an amicable solution is hoped for.

Italy will not intervene unless the lives of her subjects are threatened. The preparations are said to be mere precautions, the independence and extent of which have been unduly exaggerated by a sensational press. The attempts of anti-militarists to provoke strikes at Rome and in the provinces have failed. A few laborers struck in obedience to the leaders. The government's prohibition of the open-air meetings of 400 anarchists and Socialists is of little importance. The majority of the newspapers deplore and ridicule the unpatriotic attempts of the anti-militarists.

Italy's note to Turkey, according to best information, demands the guarantee of the porte against the recurrence of the events complained of; that is, the threats against Italian residents, the boycott of Italian goods and such like. Such guarantees, it may safely be credited, would, in the intention of the Italian government, consist in the establishment of some kind of Italian protectorate, possibly with the maintenance of Turkish suzerainty. The idea that Italy is drawing back does not seem to be entertained anywhere, but there is a disposition to believe that she will recognize the inevitable and come to terms.

Greece Is Delighted.

Vienna, Sept. 27.—Austria has refused Turkey's demand that she intervene at Tripoli. Judging that Italy will not listen to a proposition and that Turkey has decided to refuse an ultimatum, Greece is delighted at the prospects of a flare-up.

NOTHING TO IT

Steel Trust Directors Deny Those Reorganization Rumors.

New York, Sept. 27.—By unanimous vote of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, a statement is published which declares that "no negotiations whatever have taken place between the steel corporation and the department of justice looking to the dissolution or disintegration of the corporation." The statement further says that "in all its operations the company has scrupulously observed the law and recognized the just rights of its competitors and the consumers of its products."

In conclusion the directors "feel that their duty to their stockholders, their employees and the public requires that they should set at rest all rumors to the effect that they are contemplating any voluntary dissolution or disintegration of the corporation or have belief that it is subject to such dissolution or disintegration by legal action." The statement is signed by J. Pierpont Morgan and Elbert H. Gary.

FALSE AFFIDAVITS

How Child Labor Law Is Violated at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 27.—As a result of an investigation by city truant officers, twenty children under fourteen years of age who were found working in South Bend manufacturing establishments in violation of the state child labor laws, have been sent back to school. In some instances children eleven years old were at work. More than one hundred boys and girls were found working under false affidavits of their ages, furnished by their parents.

Five Dead on Battlefield.

Pine Bluff, Ark., Sept. 27.—At Oaklog bayou, Sheriff W. D. Preston and Deputy Sheriff Stell were killed in a battle with Charles Malpass, a white man, and his two mulatto sons. Malpass and his sons were also killed. Preston and Stell attempted to arrest the three on a charge of bootlegging.

Muncie Still Dry.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 27.—The twenty-six saloons authorized by Judge Bagot may not be opened until the first of next week. The delay is caused by the inability of the county clerk and his assistants to enter on the records for several days the complete proceedings of the remonstrance trial.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—James Hamilton Lewis will run for United States senator on a platform that will cut progress anything to date.

THIS ROW WAS NOT DOWN ON THE BILLS

Fisher and Bristow Enliven a Taft Meeting.

Hutchinson, Kan., Sept. 27.—Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher "mixed it up" with Senator Bristow, the insurgent Kansan, while President Taft sat before an audience of 10,000 people at the Kansas semi-centennial celebration. The fight began without a word of warning. Not a quarter of the people even knew that Fisher was present.

Governor Stubbs called upon him unexpectedly for a speech and before the insurgent executive knew what was happening, Fisher had put his heel on the neck of "hypocritical and demagogical progressives," and had his audience in an uproar. Governor Stubbs was on his feet before Fisher had ceased talking and crowded into the first pause to introduce to the audience "their great senator, whom every Kansan knows."

Then Senator Bristow went after Mr. Fisher. He seized the opportunity to resent Mr. Fisher's attack upon "hypocritical progressives" as an impugning of the integrity of the citizenship of Kansas, and demanded that the people of other states concede the honesty of the people of Kansas as Kansans admitted the honesty of others. He drove home the local note in his speech for all that was in him, and his appeal caught the ears of the excited crowd.

ARSON IS CHARGED

Illinois Dentist and Wife Under Arrest Deny Allegation.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 27.—Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Kennedy of Illinois, a town fifteen miles east of this city, were lodged in jail here on an arson charge. Through information furnished the state fire marshal by a neighbor who claims to have heard a telephone conversation between Dr. Kennedy and his wife relative to the alleged arson plot, the couple were arrested a few minutes after Dr. Kennedy's office was discovered in flames. Both declare they are innocent of the charge.

The report of Chicago's vice commission cannot be sent through the United States mails.

GRAND JURY IS INVESTIGATING

Why An Indianapolis Iron Works Went Broke.

OVERDRAFTS OF OFFICERS

Report of the Receiver of the Brown-Ketcham Iron Works Reveals a Condition of Affairs, Coupled With Recent Embezzlement Charges, That Has Led to a Thorough Inquiry by the Grand Jury.

Indianapolis, Sept. 27.—It is shown in a report on the condition of the Brown-Ketcham iron works, made to Frank D. Stalnaker, receiver for the company, that several of the higher officers of the firm drew $53,290.92 in overdrafts from the funds of the company. From Jan. 1, 1909, to April 29, 1911, W. H. Brown, president, drew $12,120.59 in overdrafts, according to the report. It is shown that the money was used for the payment of the personal debts of the president.

W. R. Brown, general manager, in the same period of time drew $9,109.71 in overdrafts, the report says. From the examination made by the special auditor who has been investigating the affairs of the company, this money also went for personal debts.

The indebtedness of Mrs. L. M. Ketcham to the firm is said to be $31,051.09. This money also was used for personal debts, according to the report.

Two former officers of the firm, Frank J. Vinson and Harry B. Holliday, are under charges of embezzling money from the funds of the company. The Marion county grand jury is investigating these charges now. The affairs of the Brown-Ketcham company are also being investigated by the grand jury.

COULDN'T KEEP OUT

Word Comes That Robert H. Green Is in Prison in Pennsylvania.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Sept. 27.—Information has been received here that Robert H. Green, a former Montgomery county banker and farmer, who later turned horse thief and has been a fugitive from justice since his escape from the Michigan City prison two years ago, is in custody at Lancaster, Pa.

It is understood Green was arrested at Lancaster a few weeks ago and sentenced to jail on a charge of horse stealing. As soon as his jail sentence expires there he will be rearrested, brought back to Indiana and recommitted to prison to serve his term.

Green owned a fine farm of about 150 acres, was married and a member of a good family here. He was a director in the Waynetown bank and took an active part in church work. Since he has been a fugitive from justice Mrs. Green has obtained a divorce and has married again.

WOMEN WON OUT

Federation of Labor Disregards Sam Gompers's Orders.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 27.—Sweeping aside the ruling of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor that no women delegates should be seated in subsequent conventions of the Indiana Federation of Labor, the federation convention, after a stormy and heated debate, voted in favor of seating eight women delegates of the Woman's Label League. Mrs. Lillie J. Schrenker, one of the contesting delegates from Muncie, asserted her rights vigorously on the floor, and charged that the fight against her sex was political.

The convention authorized a telegram to John J. McNamara at Los Angeles, Cal. It reads: "The Indiana State Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, extends to you sincere fraternal greetings and assurances of support. Be of good cheer. Right will prevail."

The Moon Murder Case.

Danville, Ind., Sept. 27.—On the request of defendant's counsel in the Moon murder case for a change of venue, Judge Clark asked Judge Williams of the Morgan circuit court to serve. Judge Williams was acceptable to all the attorneys and the trial was set for Oct. 9. The killing of Mrs. George Baldeck and Constable Oliver Wilhoite by Moon aroused the entire southern part of the county at the time.

Wants His Teeth Back.

Indianapolis, Sept. 27.—A set of teeth and $11 in money comprised the plunder two highwaymen took from Daniel Burns. The hold-up occurred in the alley in the rear of the Burns home and Burns told the police he did not care for the money, but he wanted his teeth.

Fired on Sight.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 27.—Arson Mattox shot Ray Cottrell at Sand Creek, but the wound is not believed to be fatal. Cottrell was driving past a saloon when Mattox stepped out and fired. Both men were employed at a coal mine.

The annual state convention of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in Anderson, Ind., Nov. 24-26.

TO BE TAUGHT TO PREVENT FIRES

Pupils in Public Schools of Indiana

Are to Know Something of its Dangers.

GOV. MARSHALL INTERESTED

State Superintendent Asks County and City School Heads to Observe Fire Prevention Day.

For at least one day the children in the public schools of Indiana are to be taught something of the dangers and chemistry of fire. October 9 has been designated by Governor Thomas R. Marshall through a proclamation as "Fire Prevention Day," at which time there is to be a general cleaning-up through the State and a study of the question of fire prevention.

Following the suggestion of Governor Marshall, Charles A. Great-house, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has communicated with the county and city school superintendents throughout Indiana, offering some suggestions for presenting the importance of fire prevention to the pupils in the schools. The idea for observing Fire Prevention Day originated with the Indianapolis Trade Association and has been heartily endorsed by all the leading commercial organizations of Indiana as well as by State, county and city officials. And it is hoped that eventually the teaching of the dangers of fire and methods of prevention may become a regular course in the public schools of the state.

Ohio and Montana have already taken such an advanced step in their state educational department, and text books have been prepared for use in the primary schools. These books are intended to teach the children how to avoid fires and to impress upon them the danger of carelessness in handling matches, oils and inflammable materials. Proper methods of caring for cooking and heating stoves and open fire places are suggested; the danger of uncared-for ash-heaps and coal-piles is pointed out and statistics are presented showing the great loss by fire every year, not only in destruction of property, but in the loss of lives.

for the movement in Indiana believe that the teaching of this subject in the public schools will be immense influence in bringing about a reduction in the loss of property and lives by fire in Indiana.

Copies of Governor Marshall's proclamation are being mailed by the Indianapolis Trade Association to all of the school teachers in the state, and the communication from State Superintendent Greathouse suggested a special presentation of the subject in every school in the state on October 9. It is expected that as a result of the general agitation, the present annual property loss of $50,000,000 from fire in Indiana, will be materially reduced.

THE PROPER MEAN.

We should hold the immutable mean that lies between insensibility and anguish. Our attempts should be not to extinguish nature, but to repress it; not to stand unmoved at disaster, but endeavor to turn every disaster to our own advantage. —Confucius.

Not Salts, Oil or Pills, But Cascarets

No Odds How Sick Your Stomach; How Hard Your Head Aches or How Bilious—Cascarets Make You Feel Great.

You men and women who somehow can't get feeling right—who have an almost daily headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a ten-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—do good—never gripe or sicken.

Corns Removed Sore Feet Cured, 10c

You've no idea how quickly and easily foot troubles can be ended until you try a 10-cent box of Plex. "The quick-healing salve." Three applications will usually cure a bad case of aching, sweaty feet, and a few more will remove the corns and bunions. "Sounds big," but—just try it!

Plex is a wonder-working, penetrating ointment. It destroys germs, cleans and heals quicker than anything else you ever heard of. A big box for 10 cents, and it has a hundred uses in every home.

One application cures itching piles. Quickest, surest remedy for eczema, dandruff, and other skin troubles. Splendid for catarrh. Quickly repairs stiff, sore muscles. Unequalled for burns, cuts, etc.

Plex costs only 10 cents, but it quickly succeeds where costly remedies fail. Your druggist has it, or can easily get it for you. Sent prepaid on receipt of price by the O. C. Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

CARRIES MAIL BY AEROPLANE

Postmaster General Hitchcock
Has An Interesting Trip.

SUCCESSFUL DEMONSTRATION

In Company With Captain Beck of the Army, the Chief of the United States
Postal Service Mapped Out an Aerial Mail Route and, What Is More, Landed the Goods Right on the Spot Designated.

New York, Sept. 27.—With a bag of mail across his knee, the postmaster general of the United States rose to an altitude of about 400 feet yesterday afternoon and flew eastward, five miles. Lieutenant Milling, carrying two private soldiers as passengers, stayed in the air one hour, 54 minutes and 42 3/5 seconds continuously, thereby breaking the world's record for carrying two passengers plus a pilot, by 16 minutes 23 3/5 seconds. Incidentally one of the private soldier passengers is named Paul Revere. The other passenger was Bill Eckle.

Lieutenant Milling had busted the American record and was still flying for the world's record when a tall, youngish man, decked out in a blue serge suit, a gray cap and a gray face, climbed into the Curtiss machine driven by Captain Beck of the army.

"The Hon. Frank H. Hitchcock, postmaster general of the whole United States," the megaphone began to holler, "will now fly to Mineola with Captain Beck to deliver the mail. Mr.
Hitchcock of the United States will carry the mailbag on his knees and drop the bag at Mineola into a circle in which will be the postmaster general of—I mean the postmaster of Mineola. Ladies and gents, Postmaster General Hitchcock." Much applause.

Postoffice Inspector Doyle handed the postmaster general a mailbag containing 1,440 postcards and 162 letters, and Captain Beck and the postmaster general hiked off in a northerly direction for the high spots.

"Stick right on the job, reporters," called the megaphone man hopefully as the applause that mingled with the first roar of Captain Beck's engine had died away. "In a wind like this maybe something'll happen. Stick around."

The Curtiss circled three-quarters of the field and then climbed rapidly until it was 300 or 400 feet above the south end of the track. Ovington, who had also got under way with a second bag of mail in his monoplane, shot up into the sky occupied by Captain Beck and Mr. Hitchcock, and shot eastward as a track finder for Captain Beck's biplane. The army man's machine was trailing smoke behind it, but not a copy tried to make an arrest.

The field could see the two machines almost all the time during the cross country flight. The way the bi-plane with a passenger pegged along just behind the monoplane, with only a pilot aboard, was a caution. Over a big white circle painted on the Mineola real estate, Ovington from his monoplane and the postmaster general from Captain Beck's machine plunged down to Mineola the two pouches and hit within the circle in each case. The biplane teetered slightly as the mailbag was released, and then the two machines made a circle and spun back to where the crowd stood on tiptoe peering over fences at Nassau boulevard.

"Just stick around—they ain't right here on the ground yet," went on the megaphone man, still hopefully pessimistic. But he was wrong. The machines got back safely.

"I was up once before," the postmaster general said after he had shaken hands with all around upon his return to earth. "That was at Baltimore with Count DeLesseps in his Bleriot. Fly again? I hope so, because I like the experience very much."

Rolph's Easy Victory.
San Francisco, Sept. 27.—James Rolph was elected mayor at the primary election by an overwhelming majority with a total vote of about 75,
000. Rolph secured 55,000, while Mayor McCarthy's vote is less than 20,000.

TRYING TO GET AT CAUSE OF DISASTER

Explosion On French Vessel Is Still a Mystery.

Paris, Sept. 27.—In some quarters the Liberte disaster is attributed to a fire which originated in the paint and oil shop aboard the battleship and thence spread to the powder magazines, which the crew were unable to flood in time, owing to the defective working of the flooding apparatus, which, however, was in working order ten minutes before.

The inquest which is being held is trying to establish whether fire caused the explosion or spontaneous deflagration of "B" powder caused the fire, which spread.

A story told by Cava de Kerforre,
who was the pursuer of the Liberte,
confirms the theory of deflagration.
He was asleep in his cabin and was awakened by a rumbling sound twenty minutes before the final explosion. He dressed hurriedly and left his cabin.
The passageway was thick with smoke characteristic of "B" powder, and,
thinking that the ship had been abandoned, he returned to his cabin and jumped overboard through a port as the smoke was too thick for him to go through the passageway. As he was swimming away he heard the fire bugle call and swam back to the vessel, taking charge of his division of the fire fighters until the final explosion threw him overboard.

The Liberte is now a mass of twisted iron, upon which 200 sailors are at work cutting away the armor plate.
The bridge of the battleship is still in place, and from the bridge the officers direct the work of salvage. A live sailor was found in the after turret twenty-four hours after the explosion.

"Did Its Durndest."

The city council "has done its durndest." In fact it did it last night. The council decided that the new factory erected by the Rushville Furniture Company, an organization of local capitalists, should not be admitted to Rushville until the streets in the Stewart and Tompkins addition are made coextensive with the city streets. The council is stubborn and is not to be budged an inch. It is said two stockholders in the new company say that the new factory building will stand and rot before they straighten the streets in the addition, and there you are.

The city council was not even willing to make a small concession to the local company for the betterment of Rushville. The council, elected by the people of Rushville to look after the interests and the welfare of Rushville, was not willing to vote to furnish water to the new concern and let it into the city so that preparations may be started to move wheels in the new factory. The city council was not willing to do anything. The city council appeared to be mulish. In other words the city council acted like an old woman who has lost her powers to reason.

There are any number of residents outside of the corporation line who are using city water today because the city is furnishing it to them. There are houses situated farther out than the new factory which are being supplied with water. But now comes an organization of Rushville capitalists and asks that the city pipe water to a new and modern building which should be a pride of Rushville, so that building will be protected against fire and the company can buy insurance at a reasonable rate. This organization of men will bring money into Rushville with such an industry. They will better conditions for the working man in the factory in Rushville. They will make business for every retailer in Rushville. They will add population to Rushville. They will stimulate interests in interesting money in Rushville—which, sad to relate, has been sadly lacking, as some Rushville manufactures who have made their all and all in Rushville, instead of returning to Rushville what is due her have attempted to persuade Rushville capitalists to invest their money in foreign industries and have been setting the example by so doing themselves.

But the city council has ideas of its own. Oh, that it had never had a thought. If it were only an inanimate body something might be accomplished. But here is a Chinese wall that must be sealed. The question is for the people of Rushville to solve. How is it to be done the quickest and the best? Would it be possible that enough force could be brought to bear on the city council that the members could be brought to see the error of their ways and repent? Could it be possible that the council would still refuse the popular demand if the people of Rushville would rise up and order the servants of the public to accede to their wishes? It is all very doubtful in the light of what has already transpired.

It is not very probable that the honorable body would descend to petty tricks. It can not be conceived that such a body of Rushville citizens, elected by the people of Rushville, would act with a spirit of "getting even." Far be it from anyone to suggest such a thing but consider the facts in connection with the building of the new factory here.

After the factory building had been started the company began to plan for power. It was decided to convert electricity to that purpose. The company asked the city council to make a price on electricity to be used for that purpose. The council made a price and the members of the company investigated and found that it was a much higher rate than factories were paying for current in other cities. They told the city council that but the city council had made a rate and that was the end of the discussion. The company figured and found that it could generate its own electricity for a power at a much less cost. Result, the council lost considerable income which it had anticipated.

Could it be possible that the council is acting in the spirit of "getting even?" The council has a bolstered up reason for not giving water to the factory. It will not furnish water until the streets in the new addition are lined up with the city streets. But could it not furnish water and still refuse to admit the addition until the streets are made uniform? It surely could and efforts should be made to see that it does to that.

Grant that the streets in the Stewart & Tompkins addition should be made coextensive with the city streets that is no excuse for hampering the local organization which will better Rushville. But more about the street question. The Belmont addition was platted and no room was allowed for a street on the south line. Stewart & Tompkins addition was tacked on to the south line and the promoters did not propose to furnish all f the land for the street with the result that there is no street between the two additions. In the first place the streets in Belmont were not made coextensive with the Rushville streets. The Stewart & Tompkins streets were made to coincide with the addition adjoining it. Had that not been done every one of the streets would have had a dead end on the north. They would have ended at the line between the two additions and there would have been no place for a jog to be made over to the nearest street in Belmont. What's the result? There would have been a dead end on the north line of the Stewart & Tompkins addition and the south line of Belmont, which would mean that every Rushville street which runs into the Stewart & Tompkins addition would come to an end on that line. This can not be avoided, if the streets in the new addition are changed, unless the streets in Belmont are changed to conform with the city streets also. But that can not be done without a great deal of inconveniences and possibly could not be done at all as already several homes have been erected in Belmont. One new and modern home is now being erected in the new addition and if the streets were changed the location of the house would be ruined.

In other words which would the people of Rushville rather have, a slight jog in the streets when they enter the new addition or would they rather have the streets made coextensive with the Rushville streets so that they will land in someone's back yard in Belmont?

In keeping with its economical administration the city council had to chop something in preparing the annual budget in order to make up for the library appropriation which was demanded by the board and which the city council was compelled to appropriate by the law. The five-tenths of a mill on every hundred dollars had to be appropriated for the library board and let's see how the council made way for that so that the tax levy would not have to be increased. One cent was chopped off the fire department and we suppose that the horses' feed will be lessened the coming year or one or two firemen will be "fired." Two cents was taken off street repairs and cleaning when the city will have more pavements to keep clean than ever before. The remaining two cents was taken from the general fund. It means that the city will probably go in debt heavier and that levy entitled bonded indebtedness will have to be increased next year. Instead of economical administration it appears to be extravagant.

With October's declining suns the apple orchards grow festive with their ruddy fruit. It was not so many years ago that the apple was a despised fruit. It might do well enough as a basis for cider and vinegar, and it was ever popular as raw material for the small boy's stomach ache. But it was too democratic and common a product to be fitted for the educated palate, which would have only oranges and tropical products.

While the last named favorites have lost none of their hold on the popular taste, the enormous improvement in apple culture, by which larger, fairer and more nutritious specimens have been produced, has made it one of the great American staples.

The apple and the orange are in contrast, and each fills the other's lacks. The orange brings the mellow heart of sunshine to the Northern fireside, the apple the cool tang of the North to the southern home.

As apples have improved under scientific cultivation, they cost more. But even if a barrel of apples weighing 200 pounds should cost $3 to $5, it is many times cheaper per pound than any meat or even cereal.

The Democrats demand instant revision of the tariff by congress, but why does not the tariff need expert investigation by an impartial board just as much as railroad rates?

Columbia University is to establish a library of political information, but an acquaintance with the ward boss would be of more help to the students in securing clerkships.

Although it interferes with study to make those overgrown boy trusts behave, it does not seem to be of any use to go on with the lessons until it is demonstrated that Teacher Sam is in control of the school house.

Don't Kindle A Fire Every Morning This Winter

Ever get up on a cold morning and find the fire in your Base Burner all dead around the edges--a dim red spot of fire in the center?

The house was chilly, and it was a mighty disagreeable job to get up a good fire with only a few live coals to start it with.

You will never have any trouble like that with a FAVORITE BASE BURNER. The Favorite will hold fire longer and more evenly than any other Base Burner made. It will keep the temperature in your home even, day and night. When you wake in the morning your house will be as warm as when you went to bed.

You'll find the reason in the flues and perfect fitting of the Favorite. Every door, joint and frame is paper tight.

The Favorite has held fire continuously for five successive days and nights without going out. Let us explain why the Favorite will save you full one-half in fuel bills and throw out more heat.

SOCIETY NEWS

The Grand club will be entertained Friday afternoon instead of Thursday afternoon, by Mrs. Robert Tompkins at her home in East Seventh street.

* * *

Mrs. Willard Amos and Mrs. Lawrence Root will entertain with a luncheon at one o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Amos home in North Perkins street in honor of Miss Orma Innis, who is to be married one week from tonight.

* * *

Mrs. Frank L. Clark was hostess at a pretty parachee party Monday afternoon at her home on Franklin street, her guests being the members of her club and guests for three extra tables, says the Columbus Republican. The rooms were tastefully decorated for the event and bright autumn flowers gave a pretty dash of color. After several interesting games the hostess was assisted by Miss Gertrude Washburn, Misses Blanche and Ellen Perry, and Miss Marie Clark of Rushville in serving a delicious luncheon. Mrs. Lewis M. Clark of Rushville, Mrs. Charles Willis of Stillwater, Okla., and Miss Marie Clark of Rushville were among the out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Aldridge entertained last evening with a reception for their son, Roy E. Aldridge, and his wife, who was formerly Miss Anna Jordan, at their home in Perkins street. About fifty guests were in attendance. A reception was held in the afternoon also when the same number of people were guests. In the receiving line last evening stood Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Aldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Aldridge, Mrs. Joe Miller and Robert Roem of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The dining room radiated a soft and mellow red light and was decorated beautifully in salvia. Bachelor buttons were given as favors. Light refreshments of ice cream, kisses, coffee and mints were served. The Misses Ruth Aldridge and Florence Mahin, Mrs. Grant Gregg and Mrs. Mary Brown assisted in the dining room in the afternoon and evening.

In the afternoon the blinds were drawn in the dining room and the same mellow light was effective in making the room beautiful.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace will have the same two pictures as last night. The program is said to be very good and the pictures are above the ordinary.

The Portola will have as the first picture, "The Indian Maid's Sacrifice." It is a Kalem drama. The other is a Biograph comedy entitled "The Ghost."

LAST MEETING IN ROOMS

I. O. O. F. Lodge Will Vacate Hall After Tonight's Session.

The Odd Fellows lodge will meet tonight for the last time in their old lodge rooms, as the work of remodeling the interior of the building will begin tomorrow morning. The next time the lodge meets in the I. O. O. F. building the session will be held in a modern and up-to-date hall. The contract for the exterior of the building has not been let and work will probably not begin on the outside until next spring.

Dan did not reply for a second, but he looked at her more seriously, conscious of her grace and her good looks. She was certainly better to look at than the simple girls with their big heads, small wits, long faces and, as the boy expressed it, "utter lack of get-up." The duchess shone out to advantage.

"Why don't you talk to me?" she asked softly. "You know you would rather talk to me than the others."

"Yes," he said frankly; "they make me nervous."

"And I don't?"

"No," he said. "I learn a lot every time we are together."

"Learn?" she repeated, not particularly flattered by this. "What sort of things?"

"Oh, about the whole business," he returned vaguely. "You know what I mean."

"Then," she said with a slight laugh, "you mean to say you talk to me for educational purposes? What a beastly bore!"

Dan did not contradict her. She was by no means sure of him, nor was he the raw recruit his simplicity might give one to think. He had had his temptations and his way out of them was an easy one; for he was very slow to stir, and back of all was his ideal. The reality and power of this ideal Dan knew best at moments like these. But the Duchess of Breakwater was the most lovely woman—the most dangerous woman that had come his way. He liked her—Dan was well on the way to love.

The two were alone in the big dark room. At their side the small table, from which they had taken their tea together, stood with its empty cups and its silver. Without, the day was cold and windy, and the sunset threw along the panes a red reflection. The light fell on the Duchess of Breakwater, something like a veil—a crimson veil slipped over her face and breast. She leaned toward Dan, and between them there was no more barrier than the western light. He felt his pulses beat and a tide rising within him. She was a delicious emanation, fragrant and near, and as he might have gathered a cluster of flowers, so in the next second he would have taken her in his arms, but from the other room just then Lady Galorey, at the piano, played a snatch from Mandalay, striking at once into the tune. The sound came suddenly, told them quickly some one was near, and the Duchess of Breakwater involuntarily moved back, and so knocked the small tray, jostled it, and it fell clattering to the floor.

CHAPTER III.

The Blairtown Soloist.

Blairtown had a population of some eight thousand. There was a Presbyterian church to which Dan and his father went regularly, sitting in the bare pew when the winter's storms beat and rattled on the panes, or in the summer sunshine, when the smell of the pews and the panama fans and the hymn books came strong to them through the heat.

One day there was a missionary sermon, and for the first time in its history, a girl sang a solo in the First Presbyterian church. Dan Blair heard it, looked up, and it made a mark in his life. A girl in a white dress trimmed with blue gentians, white cotton gloves, and golden hair, was the soloist. He knew her, that is, he had a nodding acquaintance with her. It was the girl at the drug store who sold soda water, and he had asked her some hundreds of times for a "vanilla or a chocolate," but it wasn't this vulgar memory that made the little boy listen. It was the girl's voice. Standing back of the yellow-painted rail, above the minister's pulpit, above the flies, the red pews and the panama fans, she sang, and she sang into Dan Blair's soul. To speak more truly, she made him a soul in that moment. She awakened the boy; his collar felt tight, his cheeks grew hot. He felt his new boots, too, hard and heavy. She made him want to cry. These

He Liked Her—Dan Was Well on the Way to Love.

SCIATICA

Is, as Nearly Everybody Knows, Extremely Painful.

The whole sciatic nerve is surcharged with pain, caused by inflammation, congestion or perhaps by a naturally rheumatic tendency found in many people. Eminent doctors and specialists agree that Sulfosol—soluble sulphur—is a dependable remedy in rheumatic conditions or predisposition. Inherited or otherwise, to rheumatism. In its truly soluble form, known as Sulfosol, sulphur is readily received into the blood, is quickly assimilated and manifests its greatest effectiveness in expelling uric acid from the system, and averting not only Sciatica, Rheumatism and Gout, but all blood and skin troubles. Sulfosol is therefore the logical and efficient solvent and eradicator of blood poisons.

Sulfosol is the great vitalizer of the blood, expeller of uric acid and other blood taints and conquerer of Gout and Rheumatism. Get it of your nearest druggist or write to the Sulfosol Company, 72 Trinity Place, New York, for a free book on Gout, Rheumatism and Blood Disease and the successful use of Sulfosol in their treatment.

were the physical sensations—the material part of the awakening. The rest went on deeply inside of Dan. She broke his heart; then she healed it. She made him want to cry like a girl; then she wiped his tears.

The little boy settled back and grew more comfortable and listened, and what she sang was,

"From Greenland's icy mountains,
From India's coral strands."

Before the hymn reached its end he was a calm boy again, and the hymn took up its pictures and became like an illustrated book of travels, and he wanted to see those pea-green peaks of Greenland, to float upon the icebergs to them, and see the dawn break on the polar seas as the explorers do. . . . He should find the north pole some day! Then he wanted to go to an African jungle, where the tiger, "tiger shining bright," should flash his stripes before his eyes! Dan would gather wreaths of coral from the straits and give them to the girl with the yellow hair. When he and his father came out together from the church, Dan chose the street that passed the soda fountain drug store and peeped in. It was dark and cool, and behind the counter the drug clerk mixed the summer drinks; and the drug clerk mixed them from that time ever afterward for the girl with the yellow hair never showed up in Blairtown again. She went away!

CHAPTER IV.

In the Coral Room.

"Mandalay" had run at the Gaiety the season before and again opened the autumn season. Light and charming, thoroughly musical, it had toured successfully through Europe, but London was its home, and its popularity was chiefly owing to the girl who had starred in it—Lettie Lane. Her face was on every postal card, hand bill, cosmetic box and even popular drinks were named for her.

The night of the Osdone box party was the reopening of "Mandalay," and the curtain went up after the overture to an outburst of applause. Dan Blair had never "crossed the pond" before this memorable visit, when he had gone straight out to Osdone Park, London theaters and London itself, indeed, were unexplored by him. He had seen what there was to be seen of the opera bouffe in his own country, but the brilliant, perfect performance of a company at the London Gaiety he had yet to enjoy.

The opening scene of "Mandalay" is oriental; the burst of music and the tinkling of the silvery temple bells and the effect of an extremely blue sea, made Dan "sit up," as he put it. The theatrical picture was so perfect that he lifted his head, pushed his chair back to enjoy. He was thus close to the duchess. With invigorating young enthusiasm the boy drew in his breath and waited to be amused and to hear. The tunes he already knew before the orchestra began to charm his ear.

On landing at Plymouth Dan had been keen to feel that he was really stepping into the world, and at Osdone Park he had been dally, hourly "seeing life." The youngest of the household, his youth nevertheless was not taken into consideration by any of them. No one had treated him like a junior. He had gone neck to neck with their pace as far as he liked, furnished them fresh amusement, and been their diversion. In all his rare unspooled youth, Blair had been suddenly dropped down in an effete set that had whirled about him, and one by one out of the inner circle had called him to join them; and one by one with all of them Dan had whirled.

Lord Galorey had talked to him frankly, as plainly as if Dan had been his own father, and found much of the old man's common sense in his fine blond head. Lady Galorey had come to him in a moment of great anxiety, and no one but her young guest knew how badly she needed help. He had further made it known to the lady that he was not in the marriage market; that she could not have him for any of her girls. And as for the Duchess of Breakwater, well—he had whirled with her until his head swam. He had grown years older at the Park in the few weeks of his visit, but now or the first time, as the music of "Mandalay" struck upon his ears, like a ripple of distant seas, he felt like the boy who had left Blairtown to come abroad. He had spent the most part of the day in London with a man who had come over to see him from America. Dan attended to his business affairs, and the people who knew said that he had a keen head. Mr. Joshua Ruggles, his father's best friend, whom Dan this afternoon had left to go to his room at the Carlton, had put his arm with affection through the boy's.

"Don't look as though it were any too healthy down to the place you're visiting at, Dan. Plumbing all right?"

And the boy, flushing slightly, had said: "Don't you fret, Josh, I'll look after my health, all right."

"There's nothing like mountain air," returned the westerner. "These old fogs stick in my nostrils; feel as though I could smell London clean down to my feet!"

From the corner of the box Dan looked hard at the stage, at the fresh brilliant costumes and the lovely chorus girls.

"Gosh," he thought to himself, "they are the prettiest ever! Dove-gray, eyes of Irish blue, mouths like roses!"

Leaning forward a little toward the duchess he whispered: "There isn't one who isn't a winner. I never struck such a box of dry goods!"

The duchess smiled on Dan with good humor. His naive pleasure was delightful. It was like taking a child to a pantomime. She was wearing his flowers and displaying a jewel that he had found and bought for her, and which she had not hesitated to accept. She watched his eager face and his pleasure unaffected and keen. She could not believe that this young man was master of ten million pounds.

When Letty Lane appeared Blair heard a light rustle like rain through the auditorium, a murmur, and the house rose. There was a well-bred calling from the stalls, a call from the pit, and generous applause—"Lettie Lane—Lettie Lane!" and as though she were royalty, there was a fluttering of handkerchiefs like flags. The young fellow with the others stood in the back of the box, his hands in his pockets, looking at the stage. There wasn't a girl in the chorus as pretty as this prima donna! Letty Lane came on in "Mandalay" in the first act in the dress of a fashionable princess. She was modish and worldly. For the only time in the play she was modern and conventional, and whatever breeding she might have been able to claim, from whatever class she was born, as she stood there in her beautiful gown she was grace itself, and charm. She was distinctly a star, and showed her appreciation of her audience's admiration.

At the end of the tenor solo Princess Oltary runs into the pavilion and there changes her dress and appears once more to dance before the rajah and to prove herself the dancer he has known and loved in a cafe in Paris. Letty Lane's dress in his dance was the classic ballet dancer's, white as the leaves of a lily. She seemed to swim and float; actually to be breathed and exhaled from out her film gown; and the only ray of color in her costume was her own golden hair, surmounted by a small coral-colored cap, embroidered in pearls. The actress bowed to the right and left, ran to the right, ran to left; glanced toward the Duchess of Breakwater's box; acknowledged the burst of applause; began to dance and finished her pas seul, and with folded hands sang her song. Her beautiful voice came out clear as crystal water from a crystal rock, and her words were cradled like doves, like boats on the boundless seas.

From India's coral strand. . . . But there was no hymn tune to this song of Letty Lane's in "Mandalay!" To the boy in the box, however, the words, the tune, the droning of the flies on the window pane, the strong odor of the hymn books and panama fans, came back, and the clear sunlight of Montana seemed to steal into the Gaiety as Letty Lane sang.

The Duchess of Breakwater clapped with frank enthusiasm, and said: "She is a perfect wonder, isn't she? Oh, she is too bewitching!"

And she turned for sympathy to her friend, who stood behind her, his face illumined. He was amazed; his blue eyes ablaze, his head bent forward, he was staring, staring at the Gaiety curtain, gone down on the first act.

He laughed softly, and the duchess heard him say:

"Good! Well, I should say she was! She's a girl from our town!"

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

By Common Garden Sage, a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling, Faded, Gray Hair.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy, and gradually restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days, on account of souring quickly. This objection has been overcome, and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair, but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow.

Get a bottle from your druggist today. Use it and see for yourself how quickly dandruff goes and gray hairs vanish.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Hargrove and Mullin, Druggists, Rushville, Indiana.

Nutting Season Here With Coming of First Good Frost

The season is at hand when the Indiana schoolboy's thoughts turn to nature. He realizes, most plainly, that the annual school term is here and the idea of a steady grind for many months to the average boy, is not to his liking. He cannot help but think of the woods and the fields where so many happy hours were enjoyed during his vacation. Then, too the cool breezes from the north, bringing with them a touch of real autumn weather always revive his spirits and make him think of the great out of doors. During the last few days of the vacation season he strives with all his might to get as much open air and sunshine as he can possibly squeeze into the remaining time.

About the first thing an average American boy thinks of during the early weeks in autumn is the nutting season. Everyone knows the joy of gathering nuts and there is hardly a boy in this part of Indiana who can truthfully say that he has never "hickory nutting." The fun begins immediately after the first autumn frost which causes the nuts to fall to the ground. The season this year it seems will begin much earlier than usual. Already reports have been received from the country that both hickory and walnuts are well matured and almost ready to gather and place in storage for use during the long uneventful winter months.

Farmers in Rush county who own hickory nut trees say the supply this season will be enormous, the heaviest in several years. Hickory trees and walnut trees are supposed to yield crops every other year. Last year was barren, but the year before saw only a light yield and consequently the nuts were at a premium. There has been no early frost to damage the crop before it had ample time to mature and the weather has been ideal for growing. One Rush county farmer who owns a large hickory tree grove, says that the trees are so heavily laden with nuts that some of the smaller branches were broken off. Among other things the nuts are reported to be much larger than usual, owing to the excellent conditions for development this season.

Undoubtedly the real boys know all about the hickory nut crop this season. It's a boy's business in summer to find out about things of this sort and the chances are that many youngsters knew the crop would be heavy this year even before the farmers themselves were aware of the fact. If the boy who knows is of the average type he has already located a good heavy fence rail near the hickory grove and has marked it and laid it away for future use. Many think a fence rail is only made for the purpose of fences, but ask a woods loving boy and he will tell you differently for he knows that a good heavy fence rail bumped against a tree by two or three husky boys will bring down more nuts than any other method.

And there is hardly a grownup but who remembers the days of his youth when angry farmers vainly tried to stop the tree bumping process. "It is true that the bumping does the trees no good, but what matters that to the boys? They want the hickory nuts and usually get them, with or without the consent of the owner of the trees.

There are many other methods adopted for gathering nuts. To "club" them off the trees is one way. The boy gets into a tree and takes with him a stout stick several feet long with which he strikes the different limbs, shaking the fruit from the tree. If the nuts are left, however, until after several hard frosts they will drop to the ground, without any exertion on the part of anybody.

Northern Indiana some years ago was one of the greatest hickory and walnut producing districts of the country. Timber men say that the yield is becoming shorter each succeeding year. This season, however, is an exception. As the territory was developed the large forest tracts were destroyed and with the rest went the hickory trees. Each year lumbermen found a greater demand for hickory timber and no part of the country was spared from the cutters' axe. The trees were cut out slowly at first but as the demand increased the supply decreased and now an old fashioned grove of hickory trees is indeed a rarity.

VISIT OF THE CRUISER HAI CHI

First Chinese Ship to Anchor in American Waters.

OFFICERS SPEAK ENGLISH.

Not a Single Cue Among Her Crew of 450—Equipped With Wireless—No Chaplain Aboard—Discipline Is Strictest.

The cruiser Hai Chi of the imperial navy of China, the first vessel of any kind flying the yellow dragon flag of China that has ever been in American waters, arrived in New York harbor recently. The trim warship, which is of 4,300 tons displacement, got a noisy reception, salutes being given in honor of Rear Admiral Chin Pih Kwang, the second highest ranking officer in the Chinese navy, whose blue pennant flies from the mast of the Hai Chi.

The only thing that makes the Hai Chi look out of the ordinary is the great silken flag that stretches to the breeze astern. This giant piece of yellow silk displays a huge blue dragon with big black eyes, a flaming red tongue and white claws a foot long, all needle worked into the yellow field in exquisite fashion.

The Hai Chi is as clean a ship as ever came to port, and it was noted that among her crew of 450 officers and men there was not a single cue. The uniforms of the officers and blue jackets are much like those worn in the American service, and among the officers there are not half a dozen who cannot speak English. The Hai Chi also has a fine brass band.

Conspicuous among the officers of the cruiser are thirteen midshipmen who were recently graduated from the Imperial Naval academy at Chefu. They are clean cut, well groomed young men.

The Hai Chi has a new Marconi outfit, and Warrant Officer Kuh, who operates it, is one of the four wireless operators in the Chinese service.

"I use the English language entirely in sending and receiving," said Kuh, "but I can send in Chinese, too, and sometimes I use it in home waters."

One of the most attractive apartments on the cruiser is the wardroom of the junior officers. As you enter your attention is attracted to a huge group portrait of gorgeously dressed Chinamen. The picture was taken in Shanghai just before the Hai Chi sailed for England several months ago. In the center on a throne is a small, clean shaved young man. He is the prince regent of China. Surrounding him are high government officers, officers of the navy and Chinese captains of industry resident in Shanghai.

There is no chaplain on the Hai Chi. It was explained that there are many religions represented in the crew. Among the sailors are several Christians, young men who were converted to Christianity and educated by the missionaries.

The discipline on the Hai Chi is of the strictest. There is a battle drill every day. The inspections are frequent, and every man must keep himself clean, and his quarters must always be ready for the scrutiny of the commanding officers. There are recreation hours, of course, and in those hours the band never stops playing, for there is nothing that the Chinese bluejacket loves so much as good music.

After leaving New York the Hai Chi will visit several other American ports and then go to Mexico and Cuba, returning to New York for a short call, and will then sail for England, where she will act as convoy for a new cruiser that has just been completed in England for the Chinese government. The Hai Chi and the new cruiser will return to China together via the Suez canal.

PROTECT GUNNERS' EARS.

Navy Looking For Guard to Soften Terrific Concussion.

An exhaustive study is being made by the medical corps of the navy to devise means of protecting the hearing of American sailors from the disastrous effects of gunfire. Ear safeguards used in foreign navies are being compared with similar devices now supplied to American seamen, and it is expected that a protector shortly will be evolved that will adequately resist the terrific concussion of the big guns. The subject is being investigated by Dr. E. M. Shipp of the naval medical corps.

The ear protectors now used are filled with cotton. The great shock from one of the mammoth guns is likely to rupture an eardrum and produce deafness at once unless the delicate organ is properly protected; also it is feared that the constant firing of the small arms, such as the service rifle, may gradually produce the same effect.

Town Development

Municipal Development Magazine for August, edited by H. M. Weir, carries an article on the work at Spokane. Featured in the article is a motto adopted and used by the business men of Spokane:

"I believe in the stuff I am handling out, in the firm I am working for, and in my ability to get results. I believe that honest stuff can be passed out to honest men and honest methods. I believe in working, not weeping, boosting, not knocking; and in the pleasure of my job. I believe that a man gets what he goes after, that one deed done today is worth two deeds tomorrow and that no man is down and out until he has lost faith in himself. I believe in today and the work I hope to do, and in the sure reward which the future holds. I believe in courtesy, in kindness, in generosity, in good cheer, in friendship, and in honest competition. I believe there is something doing somewhere for every man ready to do it. I am ready right now, are you?"

Everyone knows what a boom is, as applied to a town. Charles Dickens described it seventy years ago in the "city" of Eden though the actual word had not then been coined. But for a long time—indeed, until lately—things were managed very unscientifically. The art of booming was a most one-sided affair, chiefly worked by the real estate owners or agents. "Cities" so made—arising in a single night—showed a lamentable tendency to "bust up" or "move on." There was an absence of local pride, which is such a conspicuous feature of the new order of things—the order of the "boosters."

"Boost" is a common American term meaning to "push upward." In 1898 the first Boosters' Club was formed at Spokane, Wash., for the purpose of boosting Spokane into the place which throngs its natural resources and attractions it deserved. The club, which comprised practically the whole population of the town, drew up rules in which every soul pledged himself to regard Spokane for conversational and advertising purposes "as the center of these United States and God Almighty's creation, and never to let a day pass without having done something in word or deed to boost this town."

Booster clubs began to spring up all over the West. They spread to the East, to the North, and to the South, and now the prevailing sentiment has grown so local as to find expression in the phrase, "Cuss America; give me Oshkosh." Americans who formerly went about with the American flag in their hats and the American eagle in their buttonholes have now substituted photographic views of their own or local emblems, in default of regularly-granted municipal coats-of-arms. From "Boosters and Boosting," in the October Strand.

* * * * * KEPT HIS SAVINGS IN WALL. * * * * *

As an example of what persistent saving will do, the experience of Henry Klaus of Anderson may be read in the following dispatch:

At the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Klaus, Henry Klaus celebrated his fortieth birthday by opening his savings bank. With his parents and other relatives gathered about him, Mr. Klaus cut a small hole in a wall of the Klaus home and from between the plastering and wether boarding he took out a bushel of small coin, principally pennies, nickels and dimes. The family assisted Mr. Klaus in counting the coin. It totaled $1,099.54.

The coin was then transferred to a local bank. Mr. Klaus, on his twenty-fifth birthday, observed a small crevice in the wall. He dropped a 25-cent piece into it. Almost daily thereafter Mr. Klaus dropped into that same crevice a few pennies, a nickel or a dime, until he was forty years old.

None of the family guessed within $500 of the amount found while guessing as to what the "savings bank" in the wall would reveal. Mr. Klaus estimated he would have about $599. After banking his savings he concluded that he will either take a trip to Europe or buy another residence property next year.

THEFT WAS NOT HIS INTENT IS OPINION

Mays People Believe Roy Thompson Did Not Leave so as to Steal Funds.

LEFT $125 IN THE MAYS BANK

It is the prevailing opinion in Mays that Roy Thompson, the L. E. & W. agent at Mays, who suddenly disappeared last Thursday, did not leave for the purpose of taking funds with him. Mays people are disposed to believe that there is some other reason for his mysterious action. This opinion is upheld by the fact that Thompson had $125 belonging to the company in the bank and did not draw it out before leaving.

It is said that Thompson had let the office business deteriorate and did not make much pretense even of attending to it. He failed to collect bills and the business is said to be in a deplorable condition. Whether or not he was discouraged or whether domestic trouble is responsible can not be determined. Thompson's relatives say that no word has been received from him and that his whereabouts are still unknown.

MULE CASE JURY IS MULISH

Takes Case at 9 o'clock and Tries to Disagree at Two.

The jury in the Arlington mule case, which was tried in the circuit court yesterday, has proved to be very mulish. It was given the case this morning at nine o'clock and at four o'clock this afternoon had not yet returned a verdict. The jury wanted to disagree about two o'clock this afternoon, but the court would not allow it and told the jurors to return to the room and fight it out. The case was filed by Warren C. Lewis against William T. Hufferd for $325 damages, the plaintiff alleging a mule which he bought and later died was not sound as it was represented to be.

LARGE CROWD AT LECTURE

Interested Farmers Hear Alexander McPherson at Court House.

A good crowd greeted Prof. Alexander McPherson who gave an illustrated lecture on "Roswell and the Peeos Valley" in the assembly room of the court house last night. Mr. McPherson proved to be well versed in the best methods of irrigation and soil treatment. He gave facts and methods which will apply in Indiana as well as in New Mexico and his lecture proved highly instructive to the many farmers who were present. He is a special lecturer for the Berendo Irrigated Farms Company of Roswell and he is now on a six months' lecture tour of the United States.

With the Caloric

Come to the Demonstration

THE "Caloric" does better cooking and baking than is possible by any other method. That may sound like a strong statement to you who do not know the possibilities of this wonderful time and labor saving stove, but it is founded upon absolute results. Foods cooked in "Caloric" are far more nutritious and palatable. The delicate, delicious flavor of meats are far more savory when cooked the "Caloric" way, because none of the wholesomeness is lost by evaporation.

The "Caloric" roasts and bakes food in its raw state without first partially cooking it in an ordinary stove or reheating it before serving.

If you have never tasted food cooked in the "Caloric" Cookstove you cannot realize the vast difference in flavor.

Come to our store tomorrow and let us demonstrate to you how you can reduce your meat and grocery bills with a "Caloric" Fireless Cookstove. Come and bring your friends.

Mrs. Knobloch of the "Caloric Co" will be glad to meet you and explain this wonderful stove.
